Karin Russ Teleconference: Phthalates and Proposed REACH Regulations: March 12th, 10 PT / 1 ET. Phthalates are a group of chemicals used to soften plastic and vinyl. They are associated with reproductive harm, and DEHP is listed as "reasonably anticipated to be a human carcinogen" by the National Toxicology Program. The European Union currently has four phthalates under consideration for restriction from consumer products. Restrictions passed by the EU have implications for future US policy. Join us for this exciting discussion with an international panel of experts.
